RE: City and Guilds Technical Qualifications- March Exams

Dear Student

Following the announcement by The Department for Education on 13th January, City and Guilds Technical Qualification written exams will not be taking place as scheduled in March.

"...for all other VTQs with written exams scheduled in February and March (including BTECs and other qualifications included in performance tables) it is no longer viable for these exams to go ahead".

The Government are currently running a consultation on exams and assessments and will be advising Schools and Colleges on the process going forward. This may involve some teacher assessment and grade calculation, as such it is vitally important that you continue to join all online learning sessions and submit any work asked of you.

Once the process has been finalised, further information will be available via your Course Manager, Askham Bryan website and Social Media pages.

In line with Government guidance, the Exams Team will be working from home unless needed for essential onsite tasks. Please use the email address above if you have any questions.

Yours sincerely

Ruth Castle
Examinations Officer
